Rev. J. E. Colgan deplors the loss of his only pair of society shoes which have mysteriously put in a disappearance. It would not make so much difference, but the Reverend was to have delivered the Baccalaureate sermon at the closing semester of our temple of learning presided over by Miss Tierney, and to appear before a select audience without shoes is humiliating in the extreme.

The finding the bony framework of two human bodies by the graders at Hastings & Gallagher's camp is an item of more than passing interest. One of them was that of a white person as there were tresses of blond hair yet adhering to the fleshless skull. When found, one was sitting upon a rock by the Clearwater, while the other lay near by in a clump of brush. Nothing points their identity or the manner of their death.

It has been discovered that the convicts in the Colorado penitentiary have been operating a counterfeiting plant. Attention was attracted to spurious coins in circulation among the convicts and being passed outside in payment for purchases. A search resulted in the finding of 28 counterfeit dollars. Singularly enough, the warden has been unable to find the plant. It would seem as though it was time to make change in the management of that institution. When such a business can be conducted in a penitentiary it is a serious reflection on the management. There is dan-
